ANCESTORS AS INSPIRATION

Our December Magazine printed this quotation by James Hamilton: "There is no better heritage than a good name that a father can bequeath to his children, nor is there in a family any richer heirloom than the memory of a noble ancestor." This quotation should remind us again that ancestors mean more to us than simply names and dates. I think that perhaps the most important thing about ancestors is the inspiration that we get from a knowledge of their ability and character.

For example, most of us at times have worries about our security—our physical security and our economic security. What an encouragement it should be to us at such times to recall the hardships of our Pilgrim forefathers. The Pilgrims left in England everything that was dear to them. They turned their backs on the home land and braved the North Atlantic. They landed on the bleak New England shore in the dead of winter. Before them was only the limitless forest filled with savage beasts and still more savage men. And when the winter was over, half of their number had died. Surely it must help to reflect that nothing facing us can compare with what the Pilgrims actually endured.

Again, all of us here cherish the idea of aristocracy and properly so, remembering that historians say of our Puritan ancestors: "They were highborn men and women, persons of property and influence, many of them graduates of Oxford and Cambridge—the very flower of the English peoples." Our Puritan ancestors left stone manor houses and cathedrals to come and live in Boston log cabins. It is significant that even in the wilderness they maintained the social position of their families. And that social position is something that we their descendants can rightfully claim today.

Do we ever find it hard to stand up for the moral right in the world? When we do we may well remember those persons who suffered for their beliefs—even in New England. Their numbers certainly include many ancestors of ours. Concerning one of them, Anne Hutchinson, we have an intimate record of the persecution and church trial. That blameless woman, alone and almost friendless, stood in the dreary New England meetinghouse and faced row on row of clergymen and magistrates, and at the end heard herself sentenced to withdraw from the congregation. She started down the center aisle between faces that were cold and silent. But she was not alone. Softly from a pew rose a slender girl in her early twenties—perhaps your ancestor and mine. Mary Dyre put her arm around Anne Hutchinson and walked with her down that aisle and forever out of Boston Church. Surely with the inspiration of such ancestors we can at least say "Yes" or "No" as the conscience dictates.

Perhaps these distinguished ancestors seem too remote. But they are not remote. Connecting them to us are continuous generations of honest men and women. They were mostly farmers, owned their homesteads and tilled their lordly acres. Nearly every generation of every family contributed someone to the professions, to the military, or to public life. These intermediate generations form a broad pathway of distinction coming all the way down to us. The more we realize this, the greater will be our sense of personal worth.

I can think of no better way to dedicate our lives than to adopt and carry on the ideals of noble ancestors. Perhaps some ancestor fell under the Indian tomahawk in Massachusetts or Connecticut. It is our privilege to show that his blood and his cause still persist on the Earth. Or perhaps someone was silenced and banished in that long ago. Let the world, after this lapse of three centuries, again hear the noble ancestor's voice through the lips of a noble descendant.

It is almost as if those ancestors were saying to us in the words of John McCrae:

"To you from failing hands we throw
The torch, be yours to hold it high."

Roy E. McFee.

NOTES OF THE SOCIETY

The Editorial staff wish to call your attention to the foreword by our President in this issue. It was the opening address by President McFee at February meeting.

The sympathy of the Society is extended to the family and many close friends of Mrs. John Armstrong (Mary E.) who died February 10th 1939 in her home 19943 Roslyn Road, Detroit. She was a charter member of our society and though unable to attend many of the meetings of the society. She was interested in the possibilities of the Detroit Society of Genealogical Research and had filed her completed charts. She signed her charts as Elizabeth B. Armstrong. She was born in Leslie, Michigan April 14 1876 the daughter of William Alfred Bolter (1844-1928) and Emmeline Malora (Walker) Bolter (1844-1928). She had been a resident of Detroit for twenty seven years. She was member of the Fort Ponchartrain Chapter of the D. A. R. and the Mayflower Society. Funeral services were held in the Redeemer Presbyterian Church February 13th and she was buried in Grand Lawn Cemetery. Several members of our Society attended the services.

We are going to miss Mrs. William F. Carter when she moves to Indianapolis, Indiana on May 1, 1939. She was the first Assistant Editor and her experience and assistance is reflected in the growth of our Society. She has contributed considerable valuable material to the Burton Collection. During March she will be in Florida and we are sure would appreciate hearing from her friends address Box 166 Delray Beach, Florida.

Recording Secretary L. A. Pearce has a new telephone number Te. 2 5635

It is impossible to acknowledge in this issue all the contributions that have been received from our members due to the ill health of some of our most active workers. We are glad that most of these members are in better health. Mrs. Russell has not been able to follow up those on the sick list as she was sick herself but is much better. Those on the sick list that we know of were Mrs. Jefferson Butler, Mrs. Maude Fuller, Mrs. Kresge, Mrs. Joseph Kinney, Mrs. J. L. Vroman and Mrs. L. C. Williams, and we understand that they are much better and many are again active.

Please prepare for the Records Committee the list of genealogical books that you have or that you have knowledge of their ownership.

Our efficient Mrs. McGlynn chairman of Committee on Queries and Answers promptly sent in the information on a Johnson Book that is not in Burton but is owned by Mr. James Gibson Johnson, 4700 Ridge Road, Richmond, Michigan. This book has an account of the descendants of Jeremiah and Thomazin (Blanchard) Johnson and shows their lineage from John Alden, Thomas Blanchard, Samuel Bass, Thomas Thayer, Isaac Johnson and James Gibson.

Acknowledgment is made to the Hannah McIntosh Cady Chapter of the D. A. R. of Allegan, Michigan for the gift of the pamphlet on the life of Hannah McIntosh Cady, a real daughter of the American Revolution. She lived to the age of 102 years. They have also given us permission for reprinting.

At the February meeting sixty nine members were present and eleven visitors who enjoyed the talks of Mrs. Lamb and Mrs. Burgett.

Descendants of Elizabeth Cass (Trowbridge) Wilkins

14 Kate Trowbridge (9) Wilkins (Elizabeth C. (8) Trowbridge, Charles C. (7), dau of William D. and Elizabeth C. (Trowbridge) Wilkins, was born May 10, 1855, in Detroit, and died Feb. 14, 1938, at her home in Leesburg, Virginia. Mrs. Tittmann was a charter member of the Daughters of the American Revolution and once held the office of treasurer - general in that patriotic society. She had been an active member of St. James Episcopal church in Leesburg until prevented by illness, which lasted for many years. She was married Dec. 7, 1880, in Christ Church, Detroit, by the Rev. Samuel S. Harris, to Otto Hilgard Tittmann, son of Edward and Rosa (Hilgard) Tittmann, born Aug. 20, 1850, in Belleville, Illinois and died Aug. 21, 1938, in Leesburg, Virginia. Following their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Tittmann made their home in Washington, D. C., where he was connected with the United States Survey as a geodesist. He was educated in the public schools of St. Louis and, in 1915, received honorary degrees from George Washington University, Stevens Institute of Technology and Washington University, St. Louis. Dr. Tittmann held a number of important posts during his long association of nearly half a century with the Survey. In 1874, he was assistant astronomer of the Transit of Venus Expedition to Japan, he represented the United States in settling the Alaska-Canada boundary and later was U. S. Commissioner of the Northern Boundaries, excepting the Great Lakes, he was in charge of weights and measures (1889-1893), and was sent to Paris in 1890 to bring the National standard metre to the United States. He held office of Superintendent of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey from 1900 to 1915 when he resigned his position and removed to Leesburg, in April, 1915. At the time of his resignation, President Wilson wrote him a letter commending him for the valuable service he had rendered the Government and expressed the hope that he might long enjoy the satisfaction which work well done with high ideals and marked success should properly bring him.

Dr. Tittmann's father, Edward Tittmann, born in Dresden, Saxony, came to the United States in 1836. His mother's father, Dr. Theodore Erasmus Hilgard, noted horticulturist and writer, born in Mannheim, Germany, removed in 1835-36 with his wife Margaretha (Pauli) Hilgard and nine children, to Belleville, Illinois, where he purchased a farm in what is now West Belleville. Dr. Hilgard returned to Germany and died there, but his children remained in this country and three of his sons became noted scientists. Eugene Woldemar Hilgard, chemist, was professor of geology and natural history in the University of Michigan in 1873.

Dr. Tittmann was a member of the American Philosophical Society and a Fellow and president (1899) of the Philosophical Society of Washington, D. C. He was president of the Washington Academy of Science in 1913, and president of the National Geographic Society from 1915 to 1919.

Dr. and Mrs. Tittmann are buried in Union Cemetery, Leesburg, Virginia. They were the parents of one child, only, a son.

He married, Nov. 9, 1887, in the home of the bride's parents, Mary a Ward, dau of Eber and Therza (Nicol) Ward, born Feb. 23, 1860. Following their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Wilkins lived in Harrisburg, Pa., and Shoal Lake, Ontario, Canada. They returned to Detroit and lived for some time in the Wilkins homestead on Jefferson Avenue. Mr. Wilkins held the position of chemist with the American Radiator Company from 1896 to 1901 and the Solvay Process Company from 1902 to 1924, when he resigned to take up his duties as clerk in the offices of the Wayne County Circuit Court Commissioner. He died Nov. 4, 1948.

Capt. Eber Ward, father of Mrs. Wilkins, was a native of Keene, Essex County, N.Y. When he was four years old, the family removed to Chataqua County and at the age of fifteen he came to Newport, now Marine City, Michigan. He was employed by his uncle, Samuel Ward, and cousin, Eber Brock Ward, owners of a large fleet of boats on the Great Lakes. In 1860, he started his own line of boats between Saginaw and Detroit, and for many years was prominent in marine circles of Michigan. 16. Charles Trowbridge (9) Wilkins (Elizabeth C. (8) Trowbridge, Charles C. (7)), son of William D. and Elizabeth C. (Trowbridge) Wilkins, was born in Detroit, Nov. 22, 1861. His boyhood and youth were spent in the old home on Jefferson Avenue, which was torn down in 1923. Mr. Wilkins received his education in the public and high schools of Detroit, the University of Michigan (Ph B., 1883) and Harvard University from which he graduated in 1885, with the degrees of Master of Arts and Bachelor of Laws. Following his admission to the Michigan bar, in 1885, he started the practice of law in his native city. From 1887 to 1900 and again from 1904 to 1907, he held the office of assistant United States attorney. Mr. Wilkins was elected judge of the Records Court in 1918. It was during his term of office that the Italian feudists, known as the "Gianolla Gang", were brought to trial in his court. Owing to threats against his life and an attempt to assassinate him, Sept. 22, 1918, it was deemed necessary to keep policemen on guard, both in the court room and at his home.

Judge Wilkins, who died in Henry Ford Hospital, October 1, 1921, was highly esteemed by all classes of citizens; this was evidenced by the large numbers of people, who visited Christ Church on Jefferson Avenue, where his body lay in state. Both city and county courts adjourned in his memory and city flags remained at half mast during the funeral. He was buried in the family lot in Elmwood Cemetery.

At a special session of the bench and bar, following his death, a number of his associates paid high tribute to his character as a judge and as a citizen. The president of the bar association said of him, "The quality of intellectual honesty in his character was marked. He adhered absolutely to what he thought was right, regardless of public opinion and the turmoil of the moment." Another said, "He was jealous of the rights of the people. He was fearless and inflexible. His sentences were not passed hastily and he tempered justice with mercy." A portrait of Judge Wilkins, by Roy C. Gamble, was unveiled in Records Court in February, 1923, a gift of the lawyers of the City. Judge Wilkins was never married.

EARLY MARRIAGE BONDS OF GREENE COUNTY, TENNESSEE.

Contributed by Mrs. Z. E. Peterson

When the first settlements were made along the Watauga and Nolachucky Rivers in 1769 they were thought to be on soil belonging to Virginia. Because of the dispute between Virginia and North Carolina over boundary lines through this wilderness, these pioneers formed their own Government in 1772, the famous Articles of the Watauga Association. By 1777 the boundary line was established and these settlers came under the jurisdiction of North Carolina as Washington County, from which Greene County was formed in 1783. Being too far from the seat of Justice, they formed the independent State of Franklin in 1784 which survived only four years. In 1788 they again came under the control of N. C. as Washington District until 1790 when Congress formed the Southwest Territory with William Blount as Governor. The new State, Tennessee, was formed from this territory in 1796, with John Sevier, the hero of King's Mountain as Governor. The Greene County Clerk signing these bonds was the noted soldier, Col. Daniel Kennedy.

AMERICAN ANCESTRY
SAMUEL TOMPKINS AND MARTHA ALPHEA (TODD) SCHUREMAN AND THEIR DESCENDANTS
Frances Ida Schureman Judd

(Since the publication of the first installment, further information about the van Westerhout family has been found, and while it should have appeared in the previous number, will be inserted here

The Dutch name van Westerhout means from the west wood, and either describes the family home, or is a place name

Apr 30, 1684, Adrianus Westerhout was engaged to build a house for Cornelis Jansen at Montague's Flat, Harlem, New York, for which he was to receive "800 Guilders in fat cattle, wheat and rye," the cattle to be delivered on "All Saint's Day " Previously, Adrianus had been engaged to build another house "with a lean-to" for Adolph Meyer, also at Harlem

No connection between Adrianus Westerhout and the Jan van Westerhout family has been found although it is not unlikely that one existed

Jacob (2) Janszen van Westerhout seems to have out lived all the male descendants of his father, which is seemingly why the name appears to have become extinct in this line One son, Jacob (3), mentioned in his father's will, died before the date of the will of Jacob (2), who left no sons, as indicated below.

"In the name of God, Amen Feb 17 1723. I, Jacob Johnson Westerhout of the Borough Town of Westchester, cordwainer I leave to my granddaughter, Mary Johnson Westerhout, daughter of my son Jacob Johnson Westerhout, deceased, all my houses, lands and tenements in Westchester, and all my 25 pounds right in the undivided lands in Westchester The same are to be put out for her benefit till she is 18, and then she is to be put in possession I leave to my daughter Sarah, wife of Mr Garrett of Withersfield, Connecticut, 1/2 of my lands in Glastonbury, Conn To my daughter, Anne, wife of Stephen Buck of Wethersfield, Conn, the other 1/2 of said lands I appoint Nathaniel Underhill and William Forster, executors "

Children.-

- I. Christian (Christina) mentioned in will of her aunt, Sophia Romeyn who bequeathed to her a bed "my gold rings and golden ear pendants called in Dutch, Stricken " Bapt. July 21, 1706.

Frederick (2) Schureman, and Mary Badeau each aged 80 years in 1710, were said by Bolton in his History of Westchester co., N. Y. to have been the oldest inhabitants of New Rochelle. No records of the deaths of either (22) Frederick or his wife Christina (Jans van Westerhout) Schureman appear, although they were both living Oct. 7, 1715 when Frederick was about 85 and Christina 79 years of age.

The entire list of Inhabitants of New Rochelle in 1698 leaves much to the imagination. It is a puzzle fraught with never ending possibilities, and its potentialities are by no means exhausted on the tribe of Schureman! Probably, as Mr. Richard Wyncoop hazarded three conjectures on the name of Jacob Schureman's wife, as it appeared in the 1710 List, the writing in the original may have been almost undecipherable.

In the List of 1698 the name of "Jacop squarman ag 26", follows that of his mother "Creastan Squarman ag 62", the name of a wife does not appear after "Jacop's" showing that he was living with his parents and was still unmarried. The name of "johan geaffears ag 78", followed by "an geaffears ag 24", appears elsewhere, "an" and "johan", manifestly constituting the "geaffears" household, and proving that neither Jacob or Annetje (Dutch for Ann) were married at that time.

In the Census of 1710 Jacob's name is followed by that of his wife Altje, Alida or Altia and five children, beginning with Jacob, b ca 1699, and Anne b ca 1700. Considering the prevailing practice of naming the first son after his father and the first daughter after her mother, it is reasonable to assume that Jacob (4) and Anne (4) were named after their parents, and also, "an" was not listed as "an geaffears" in 1710. In fact, no one by the name of Jeffers is listed in that Census. June 5, 1713 Jacob Schuurmans with his wife Annetje Jeffers had a daughter Sophia baptized at the Collegiate Dutch Church in New York City, and it is the belief of the writer that this Annetje Jeffers, "an geaffears", and "Altia, Alida and Altje were one and the same person, that Jacob Schureman married only once and that all of his children were the children of one mother, probably called Anne, at New Rochelle. It is reasonable to presume that "johan geaffears" was a grandfather of Annetje (Jeffers) Schureman. In 1700 the New Rochelle Assembly was debating the proposed route of "Kings Rod" (King's Road) which was to connect

"york" and "boston." The "assembly a Confirmet" (confirmed) "itt as it is now settled being a thain brod and for the watter Rod the assemble as also Confirmed itt as it stands now from boston Rod to the water side betwixt John Jeffreis and the Widow Machet and this to be also a thaine brod to and for others rods To the Watter sydes itt is ordered that they shall stand as they are now settled pourvoide "(provided)" that they be eighteen foot brod fre from alls steaks wch shall be understood for the Rods betwixt Jeffry and Machet for nobedunstading" (notwithstanding) "The contrary" This road between New York and Boston seems to have been completed, as reference is again made to it in 1754

William Jeffry who was of New Rochelle in 1692 may have been the father of Annetje (Jeffers) Schureman From N. Y. Hist. Soc. Collections, Abstracts of Wills, Vol. 1, p. 201 (Liber 3 4 p. 448) we are informed. "By the Commander in Chiefe Whereas on the 9th of November last past I did grant letters of administration on the estate of James Lately deceased, to William Le Counte, his son in law, whereby he is enjoined to make an inventory, which he has done without appraisment We therefore, authorize ye Eliene Cathenat and William Jeffry, both of New Rochelle to appraise the said goods

Dated July 14, 1692
Richard Ingoldsby."

This William Jeffry, if he was the father of Annetje, probably died before the 1698 list of New Rochelle was taken, or he may have been the William Jeffrey who died in estate in Westchester Co. administration of whose estate was granted Nathaniel Underhill May 3, 1751, or more likely this William who d. in 1753 was her brother who lived elsewhere in Westchester Co. at the time of the recording of the list.

May 3, 1724 Annetje, dau of Thomas Jeffers and Cornelia van Varick was baptized at the Ref. Dutch Church in New York City. This Annetje may have been the same person who, with Jacob Koning sponsored the baptism of Annetje, daughter of Edward Jeffers and Nellie Brouwer at the same church July 31, 1743. The record shows that this baptism was witnessed by Jacob Koning and Annetje Jeffers, syn. (his housewife). Possibly this Jacob "Koning" was Jacob (3) Schureman (which is pronounced Skureman) and Edward Jeffers father of the Annetje baptized in 1743 may have been a nephew of Annetje (Jeffers) Schureman.

Between the years 1707 and 1764 baptisms of children at the Ref. D. Church in N. Y. City who were of the Jeffers Jeffrey family and New York wills of those years reveal a family of that name in that city although the writer has established no relationship between them and the New Rochelle family of that name.

When the U. S. Census of 1790 was taken in Westchester County there were living at Greenburg, John Jeffries and William Jeffries each heads of families (The writer of this Schureman Ancestry would welcome additional information concerning this early New Rochelle family).

A 1790 map of New Rochelle New York in the Town Records reveals the fact that Jacob (4) Schureman at that time owned two farms at that place one of the 66 acres and another and larger one. He was made Collector of New Rochelle March 24, 1786, and several of his sons also held offices in the town.
